LARS CAPITAL. The United States Cordage Company, the successor of the National Cordage Company, began business yesterday, under its charter, granted on Tuesday, in New-Jersey. The capital stock is the same as that of the National Cordage Company, with the exception that $6,000,000 guaranteed stock is issued, to be exchanged for security corporation bonds, and $3,000,000 additional preferred stock is issued, to represent the contributions of the stockders. This makes the total capital stock, guaranteed, $6,000,000; preferred, $8,000,000; common, $29,-

The directors elected at the stockholders' meeting held yesterlay were the following: Rudolph Keppler, William H. Corbin, Edward F. C. Young, George G. Williams, William W. Sherman, William B. Sewall, Francis Smith, Joseph J. O'Donohue, Valentine P. Sayder and John Scott. After the Reorganization Committee has completed its work it is expected that Messrs, Thelmann, Gossler and Gulliver will also be elected permanent directors. There are two more permanent directors to be selected when the company is in operation. Late yesterday afternoon the directors met and elected Rudolph Keppler, president; William H. Corbin, vice-president and treasurer, and Appleton Sturgis, recopresident and treasurer, and Appleton Sturgis, secretary protem.

Upon the guaranteed stock the company will pay a dividend of 6 per cent, cumulative after January 1, 1825, and the whole or any part of this stockbut not less than 1,000 shares at a time—will be redeemable on any dividend day, at the option of the company, at the price of 105. The company will be obliged to set apart, beginning with 1896, from the net profits after the payment of dividends on all the preferred stocks, the sum of $100,000, to be devoted to the purchase of the guaranteed stock at the lowest obtainable price. If not obtainable, the stock is to be drawn, and all stock thus acquired will be cancelled. The preferred stock will be entitled to a yearly dividend of 6 per cent. The company may create mortgage bonds to the amount of $7.500,000, and no other mortgage or lien superior to the lien of the guaranteed and preferred stocks can be created without the written consent of the holders of 80 per cent of the guaranteed and 80 per cent of the preferred stock.

RUMORS AFFECT GENERAL ELECTRIC

Rumors of various kinds affecting the General Electric Company served yesterday to send this stock tumbling down, until at one time it was 5's points below the opening price. The first rumor go into the hands of a receiver at any time. No definite reason for such a course was presented. and as the company met its last interest this could not be used again. There was a report, however, that if the company did not go into the hands of a receiver it would be reorganized within the next sixty days. The result of the circulation of these rumors caused the stock to drop from 35%, the opening price, to 31%. The friends of the stock railied, however, at one time and forced it up to 37%, the highest point reached during the day. The closing was at 33. The officers of the company denied indicannily that any one of the rumors circulated during the day was true. They declared that the company would be entirely out of debt inside of ninety days, and as for a reorganization, they laughed at the idea. The excuse for the decline in the stock made by one of the officers was that the heavy men in the company did not see fit to support the stock when the bears made a raid upon it. and as the company met its last interest this could

AN INJUNCTION TO PREVENT A STRIKE. St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 27 .- A document was deliv red into the hands of United States Marshal Dan ahower last evening which may have the effect of deterring the engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and telegraph operators of the Northern Pacific Railway from striking. It was issued by Judg-Caliwell, of the United States Circuit Court, and is in effect an injunction to keep the strikers from interfering with the operation of the road.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 27 GSpecials.—Grand Master Sargent, of the Bratherhood of Locomotive Firemen, does not think the restraining order issued by the United States Court against a strike on the Northern Pacific road will be effective. He condemns the proceedings as a mistake likely to precipitate a strike, which otherwise was in a fair way to be avoided. The officials of the various brotherhoods are not unprepared to meet the issue, he says, having quietly obtained legal advice from eminent authority. Mr. Sargent says the courts cannot restrain a man from quitting employment. So far as the restraining order applies to himself as an executive officer of a brotherhood, he says that, in the first place, he does not order or "sanction" strikes, as stated in the legal papers, and that any way he is not in the jurisdiction of the court. TALK ABOUT TURF AFFAIRS.

Racing news of the last four weeks indicates that he true friends of the sport. In Washington the of the decided opposition of the better element of our supporters in the Capital City. The end of the ight between the sand fleas of Brighton Beach and tives of both the Brighton Beach and Glouceste Hoff and his associates that they refused to have anything to do with them. Winter racing is not popular in the North, and no matter where the nto discredit attempt to push their plans to have disgraced the turf in the neighborhood of his city have been folled. It is a pity that such a great sport as racing should be placed in this addrona position by a class of men who have neither a reputation for honesty in their own class nor the slightest position in any grade of society. The glowing accounts of the indignation of the usiness men of Washington at District-Attorney Birney's position are laughed at by turfmen. If the keepers of barrooms and disreputable resorts ent the business men of the capital it is high ime that an indignation meeting were held to sup-ress Mr. Birney's activity. Local racing news is extremely limited. It is said that a change will be made in the judges' stand at one of the leading tracks next season. It is exemely possible that one of the associations will make a change in the starter's box. The races of the season just finished are being analyzed by the experts, and the performances of the horses when ridden by different jockeys are being criticised. The result arrived at by many experienced turfmen is that Taral and Domest are the most consistent of the jockeys, and that many of the others are far more addicted to "in-andout" riding than the horses are to "in-and-out" tions with turf affairs. Of course I may race in small way, but I sincerely desire to resign all cision about anotton and mutter pools being totteries. There is no occasion for excitement, as the decision merely threshes old straw. Peter De Lacy's first fight with the Monmouth Park Association caused the same decision to be rendered by the Supreme Court of New-Jersey. Fookmaking, however, is not a lottery, as the bettor knows when he hets just the amount that will be laid against his money. The decision in the Irving-Britton case stands off the Syracuse decision, so that the lives Pool law remains the same until a final decision is rendered by the Court of Appeals.

The reports from the breedling establishments indicate that the crop of thoroughbred foals of 1894 will exceed all others in the history of breeding in this country. Some turfmen object to the laudation of some of the full brothers of great winners imported to this country. It is doubtful if Englishmen would object to such horses as Longdock or Kingstock being shipped to England. The chances are that they would breed their best mares to them.
Ormonde has taken kindly to his new home in California and has improved wonderfully. All the imported mares are thriving on the rich affalfa and the glorious climate, so that the advent of the get of Ormonde on the American turf is likely to create a sensation.

Over 100 mares were bred in Australia to conform to the American system of rating ages. The progor ormonic of the control of the Australia to conform to the American system of rating ages. The progeny are now two years old, so that an influx of horses bred in the Antipodes to contend with native bred horses is likely to take place next spring. Americans are not slow to appreciate the good qualities of racchorses, no matter where they are bred, so that the performances of the get of Sir Modred, the greatest of all sires of average speed, are almost sure to make American turfmen regard the Australians with respect.

E. M. Townsend, the senior partner in the firm 35 Broadway, went to Police Headquarters on Christmas Day and complained that there had been a burglary at his house, No. 63 West Ninth-st., early in the morning. The thieves first tried to cut a way through the basement door of the house. then they had pulled some of the iron bars out of a basement window and had got in that way. They had stolen a mandolin and a number of articles of silver, valued at about £2.59. Among the silver articles were many spoons, knives and forks, carving sets for fish, shovels and ladies, which had the initials "A. G." entraved on them.

Inspector McLaughlin ordered detectives to make a search for the thieves and the stolen articles. On Tuesday evening Detectives Reap and Holland saw George Freeman, a professional thief, carrying a bundle in the Bowery, and they arrested him. The bundle was found to contain the mandolin and six of the spoons which had been stolen from the house of Mr. Townsend.

Freeman admitted that he had aided in the burglary, and he said that the rest of the stolen silver had been sold for £7 to Mina Eidelman and Ida Kantoh, who kept the second-hand store at No. 1 Suffolk-st. The detecuves went to the store yesterlay morning and arrested the two women, who had heiden the silverware in a bag under the bed. Mrs. Townsend identified all of the articles which had been stolen from her house. The three prisoners were remanded yesterday.

old Trimity's chimes will not fing the new year.

In. For the first time in fifty years they will be silent on New Year's eve, and all because the noisy, unmanageable crowd that makes New Year's eve hideous has become a general nuisance on every New Year's eve by throwing rubbish into the churchyard and otherwise making things unpleasant for those who look after the church and its adjoining yard. The Rev. Dr. Dix has ordered on this account that the custom of ringing the bells be discontinued.

THE COURTS.

THE DEACON TRUST IN NEW HANDS. ELLSWORTH WESTERVELT IS RELIEVED AFTER HAVING SERVED FOR FOURTEEN YEARS.

appointed the United States Loan and Trust Com-pany trustee in the place of Ellsworth Westermodore Charles H. Baldwin for the benefit of his daughter, Florence, who became the wife of Edward Parker Deacon, and was a central figure in Parker Deacon, and was a central figure in the shooting of M. Abellie by her husband in France nearly two years ago.

The trust was created on April 22, 1879, just before the marriage of Miss Baldwin to Mr. Deacon. It was to be for her benefit during her life, and the principal was to go to her children at her death. The trust consisted of stocks valued at $50,000. The trustees named by Commodore Baldwin were Mr. Westervelt and C. Adolphe Low. Mr. Westervelt has served as trustee for fourteen years, and meanwhile the value of the trust has increased to about $40,000. Mr. Westervelt recently asked the Court to relieve him from the responsibility of the trust. Mrs. Deacon consented to his withdrawal, and the Court appointed Francis P. Lowrey, referee. He recommended that the reasignation be accepted, and Judge Truax confirmed his report.

The children who will receive the principal of the trust after the death of their mother are Marie G. Deacon, Ida A. Deacon, Edith E. F. Deacon and Eveline Dorothy Deacon.

A MYSTERIOUS DIVORCE SUIT.

Howe & Hummel have another law suit on hand which resembles closely that brought by them on behalf of Mrs. Zella Nicolaus against George Gould. case and in the hiding of the plaintiff, another woman, who has a suit against a man who is reputed to be wealthy. The woman alleges that she is the wife of Robert M. Robinson, a partner of the is the wife of Robert M. Robinson, a partner of the firm of Robinson, Hayden & Co., coal dealers at No. 44 Broadway, who is also interested in coal mines in Jonesville, Penn., and in the Else Shoe Company, No. & North Third-st, Philadelphia. She says her name is Helena B. Robinson, and that she was married to Mr. Robinson about five years ago, under romantic circumstances. They lived together for a time in West Forty-second-st. Now she is suing him for a limited divorce. The suit was brought early in December. Howe & Hummel have been trying since December 13 to serve the summons upon him without success, it is said that he is in Philadelphia.

At the office of Howe & Hummel the same secreey about their client and the circumstances under which the suit was brought was maintained as that with which they surrounded Mrs. Nicolaus.

OUTRAGES BY YAQUI INDIANS.

St. Louis, Dec. 27.—A dispatch to "The Globe-Democrat," from Guaymas, Sonora, says another crime is added to the outrages being committed by the band of renegade Yaqui Indians who are again spreading terror through the mountain regions of Northwestern Mexico. Word comes from the Pueblo of Santa Maria that three of the Indians attacked a wood camp near that place, killing the attacked a wood camp hear that place, killing the foreman, Ricardo Martinez, and seriously wounding his two companions. They then fled to the mountain fastnesses and have not been seen since. The number of Yaquis making the present disturbance is estimated to be about 100. The troops

LOW PRICES FOR WOOL. A REVIEW OF THE INDUSTRY DURING THE YEAR

ABOUT TO CLOSE. Boston. Dec. 27.—"The American Wool and Cot-ton Reporter" in its issue of to-morrow will pub-lish its annual review of the scaboard and interior wool market, which is, in part, as follows:

wool market, which is, in part, as follows:

The year of 1833 will go into history as the most remarkable which the wool interests of the United States have ever experienced. Never in the history of the wool market have the prices for domestic wools ruled so low as during 1833. The decline in fleece wools since January i has averaged fully 20, per cent. The course of the scoured wool market shows a greater decline than any other, unless it be nulled wools, which have shrunk in value fully 33-1-3 per cent, and have sold nearer a free wool basis than any other staple in the market. Territory wools show about 33-1-3 per cent shrinkage, reckoning on January 1 quotations, but a 35-per cent depreciation is shown between March 1 and to-day's values on some of these wools. In foreign wools there has not been experienced so manifest a decline.

The total stock of domestic wool now on hand in Boston is 32,736,490 pounds, total stock of foreign wool. 5,152,600 pounds, as against 31,162,600 pounds domestic and 4,450,600 pounds foreign at the same time last year. This shows an increase of 3,573,000 pounds domestic and 10,790 pounds foreign. The total sales in Boston since January 1, 1893, amount to 124,171,600 pounds, against 175,553,529 pounds for the corresponding time last year. The total receipts in Boston since January 1, have been 48,340 hales domestic and 120,756 bales foreign, against 622,833 bales domestic and 120,756 bales foreign for the corresponding period of 1892. This is a decrease of 132,434 bales domestic and 14,756 foreign.

The total stocks of wool in bond in Boston is 30,589,939 pounds, against 2,74,413 pounds a year ago, The total stocks of wool in New-York are 12,158,847 hounds domestic and 3,84,924 pounds foreign total stocks in Philadelphia, 8,010,000 pounds foreign total stocks in Philadelphia, 8,010,000 pounds domestic and 1,339,000 pounds foreign. Total stocks in all the principal markets of the United States, 30,087,171 pounds; in other markets, 15,500,000 pounds foreign total stocks in all the p

THE AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY.

Baltimore, Dec. 27 (Special).-Nearly 200 members Baltimore, Dec. 27 (Special).—Nearly 200 members of the American Chemical Society were present at the opening of the annual meeting in Johns Hopkins University to-day. They came from all parts of the country. The society was organized in 1876, and is divided into four sections, with head-quarters at New-York, Newport, Cincinnati and Washington. The total membership is 600. President Gilman, of the Hopkins University, welcomed the delegates, and Dr. Ira Remsen, professor of chemistry, also made an address. H. W. Wiley, the retiring president of the society, responded. A number of papers were read and discussed. This afternoon the members of the society were taken on an excursion to the Maryland Steel Works, and this evening they were guests at a dinner given by the Baltimore members.
